- It is the unveiling of our Savior in the fullness of His forever glory.
 - To say this is a revelation _____ Jesus Christ is to say that is a revelation _____ Jesus Christ (1 Peter 1:13).
 - What is most importantly revealed in the Book of Revelation is not times or dates, but the blazing glory of Jesus Christ.
- The ultimate plans that the Father put in place from eternity past to exalt His Son are what the Father gives the Son in this revelation.

2.) Revelation is about _____ in Christ.

- The central truths of this text are not meant by God to _____ us, but to reveal truth that gives us confidence in Christ.
 - As the fullness of Christ’s authority, power, and glory are unveiled, God means to inspire hope and faith in those who trust in Him.
- God inspires within us confidence in Christ by showing us what will assuredly come.
 - God gave us this revelation through John so that we might know what He is bringing about, both today and when Christ returns (Matthew 5:18).
 - Unlike predictions of this world, the events in Revelation are an infallible and _____ reality for all people everywhere.
 - Those who hear this revelation and put it into practice are blessed because they will not be caught off guard or found unprepared.

3.) Revelation is about _____ in Christ.

- Revelation was written to churches that were struggling with great troubles and suffering persecution.
- Revelation is a call to persevere through suffering and to fight for purity against the enticements of the world.
 - Perhaps nothing affects the way that we live _____ more than what we believe about _____.
 - Because the future is all about Christ, the only present that makes sense is a Christ-centered life.
- What do you believe will happen in the end, and how is that belief affecting how you live today?
- God has given us the Book of Revelation so that, through it, the Holy Spirit might develop within His people supreme confidence that we will overcome sin and death and every enemy of God in Him.
- Revelation unveils a future that is centered completely in _____. How does your life align with that reality?
